

Press Release

Sacramento, CA - January 30, 2006

NWCU Scores Big on Baby Bar

Northwestern California University is pleased to announce that it had the highest first-time taker passing average on the October 2005 California First-Year Law Students' Examination. The school's passing percentage was 46.9%.

Northwestern California University is an entirely online law school located in Sacramento, California. It was founded in 1982 and is the oldest law school of its type with continual operation in California.

According to the California Committee of Bar Examiners, the statewide passing average on the October 2005 exam for all-takers from all schools was 25%. The overall average for all first-time takers from all schools was 32%.